If you're the type of person that just wants a server that runs 24/7, this is perfect for you. This is a huge improvement over the initial release of the free version. The main flaw of the previous version was that you can't search, you can't filter, or really do much of anything...and that's too bad because it's a great app. This app is awesome! It's so simple to use and the interface is great. The app will remember every configuration we have. That means if we install the app on a new PC, the app will remember every setting we have and it will run the way we want it to. You must be signed in to post a review. NADetector is a network monitoring tool that quickly and efficiently discovers and analyzes IP traffic in your local network. This tool will help you easily identify and troubleshoot network problems. NADetector is not your traditional network sniffer. It does not perform any form of active network capture. NADetector pulls the IP traffic that is already being generated by your devices on your local network. It can monitor LAN, WAN and TSLP traffic simultaneously. NADetector also allows you to view the incoming and outgoing traffic as well as the total bandwidth of your LAN, WAN or TSLP connections. In addition, the application can save the results to clipboard, then save them to a TXT or HTML file. You can also export to PDF and email the results. NADetector is great for troubleshooting network problems and for monitoring and analyzing the network traffic for each IP address pair and protocol becomes an easy task when using NADetector. Knowing exactly how much each user has downloaded or uploaded in a given month can be very helpful. With the help of NADetector you are able to gather statistical information about each IP address, network traffic that passes through adapters and view incoming, outgoing and summary traffic statistics. You can also track Internet bandwidth usage, view the active connections you have to the Internet at any given moment and analyze the volume of traffic flowing through them. Because it comes with an intuitive and user-friendly interface, the application does not require any advanced configurations to be made before analyzing your local network. Simply hit the 'Run' button and wait patiently for the results to be displayed in the main window. You can view details such as source addresses, received packets and used protocols. The collected information is very useful, especially for administrators who need to understand different IP addresses and data involved with a given network utilizing task and to troubleshoot network problems. This way, you can monitor the Internet traffic in real time and get your total bandwidth usage in order to avoid overshooting your broadband limitation. What's more, the application allows you to save the generated results to clipboard, then paste them to Notepad, WordPad or to any document you want, as well as export them to a TXT file and attach it to e-mails or share it with your colleagues. All things considered, NADetector is worth having when you need to view all the active connections you have to the Internet at any given NADetector is not licensed, so you cannot use it for commercial or multi-user purposes. This trial version is only an extract of the full software. The watermark on the right is for demonstration purposes. NADetector aims to keep its users informed about the IP addresses and data involved with a given network. Whenever a new IP address is encountered by NADetector, the information is saved to a log file. If a subnet is detected, you will be able to analyze detailed information about it such as how it is used in the network.
